July Williams, founder of "The Sunshine Outreach," discusses with Jim McClellan some aspects of what her organization is doing about the high cost of living as a result of seeing the homeless and hungry around her. Her "Outreach" is a gleaning operation which, in cooperation of the owners of the fields, goes into recently harvested fields and gleans the remaining food items on the ground. The items are then given to the poor. She urges people to get involved since not even half of the fields are being gleaned. Because of the high cost of food, the unemployed and the employed who find it difficult to make ends meet are in need of such help.

This program examines the human fossil record, assumptions and possibilities of the missing link as studied by both creation scientists and evolutionists. Dr. Walter Bradley, professor at Texas A&M University, says information in school textbooks for evolution is biased but presented as fact. The 1856 discovery of the Neanderthal Man, for instance, was re-classified in the 1960's as ancient man suffering from arthritis and other ailments. 	Joy 0429-88 Jim McClellan interviews Cliff Cartland, journalist and researcher. Cartland, publisher and editor of Family Life Today and author of You Can Protect Yourself And Family , summarizes his book on AIDS, giving such primary information as the means of contracting AIDS which he states as: either through homosexual activity or intravenous injections. He mentions the elusiveness of the virus, in that it may show up as late as eight years after the microscopic cells have been found. He warns against contact with infected blood or oral blood, or with infected saliva. He laments that many myths and misconceptions are being disseminated which only frighten people and are unfounded. AIDS (cont'd)	Director of New Creation Ministries--a ministry to help gays change their sexual orientation; John Hunter, former gay and presently director of The AIDS Resource Center. They point out the need of the church to accept the homosexual and the AIDS victim, not approving of their lifestyle, but extending love in order that God's love for every person may be seen. AIDS has become a civil rights issue because the public has denied AIDS victims some of their rights.
	Dr. D. James Kennedy #821	Rec.	PA/O	05-22-88 7:00 a.m.	58:30
	Dr. Kennedy presents the latest facts on the status of AIDS in America today with the help of interviews with qualified doctors, social workers and others. He asks what the reaction of the audience is to the victims of AIDS: the hemophiliacs, babies born with AIDS, drug users, spouses buried in the deception of an adulterous affair, and the place where it has been most visible--the homosexual community. He also takes a close look at the political battles that have limited our country's effective handling of this disease which, as a result, has left it free of the communicable disease category, and thus free of protective legislation.

	Pat Robertson laments the deplorable situation of AIDS. He mentions the AIDS material sent by the Government to each household in America at a cost of $17 million dollars, and he deplores the fact that some of the information is not only misleading, but incorrect, and fails to mention other ways that AIDS can be transmitted other than through sexual contact. Pat calls it a "cover-up". He mentions that one hospital that tested its babies for AIDS had more cases than was reported for the entire United States.

Pat Robertson, President of the 700 Club introduces a feature on AIDS. He reports that it costs $140,000 to treat one case of AIDS, resulting in a cost of $63-75 billion dollars for the care of half a million AIDS cases. U.S. Representative William Dannemeyer of California says that the gay rights groups have intimidated health officials and Congress and kept them from treating AIDS like other communicable diseases. Even venereal diseases have to be reported, even though they are curable, unlike the fatal disease of AIDS. Dr. Cory SerVaas, a member of the President's Commission On AIDS, says The Commission's chairman is trying to push through a bill making the privacy of the victim paramount.

Jim McClellan interviews Candace Walters, a rape crisis counselor and author of Invisible Wounds. Walters says that rape is a more acceptable crime, and harder to convict the criminal because of the society's view on sex. Walters discusses aspects of rape, what motivates the perpetrators, and the kinds of victims they attack. She also gives some precautions women should take in avoiding becoming victims. She discusses the trauma women feel, and the guilt they often carry because of the way the courts handle such cases.

Neill, author of I'm Gonna Bury You, tells first of his life as public defender and state prosecutor. While defending criminals, he himself became involved in crime, planning 50-75 succesful bank robberies while also dealing in cocaine and bribery. Finally caught, convicted, and sentenced to 50 years in prison, he tells of the absolute bleakness of prisons, and of the Federal Prison in Springfield, Mo. as the lonliest place on earth. He tells of his conversion in that prison and of his release after only 2½ years with the explanation that a mistake was made. He now spends his time in prisons telling how Christ changed his life, thus giving hope to criminals, many of whom may never get out.

	In these two programs, Bob Hoskins introduces the subject of pornography. His guests are: Albert Jaslow, psychiatrist of Miami, Florida; William Kelley, retired FBI Agent, now special investigator with the Ft. Lauderdale Police Department. Kelley answers the charge by the Miami Herald that "Mom and Pop" video stores are being closed down by pointing out that government is merely trying to enforce the law. He accuses the press and the ACLU of providing a smokescreen allowing the porn stores to operate. Kelley mentions that a Los Angeles police report says that 85% of pornography is produced by organized crime, and that rapists and murderers have admitted the significance porn has played in their crimes. Jaslow warns parents that allowing their children to watch porno movies in the home is contributing to their sexual delinquency or psycho-sexual disturbance.

He says that upon graduation, many teens feel that one way to assert independence is by drinking or or by using the other illegal drugs that are readily available. The number one killer of young people age 16 to 20 is the alcohol related accident. He reflects on the pain of having to go to the homes of those persons who were victims of a D.U.I. accident and telling their families that their loved one was killed. He urges those viewers who are substance abusers not to drive while under the influence of drugs or alcohol, if not for themselves, to think of their families.

	Hosts Regina and Michael Utterback talk with Barbara Erickson of "The Starting Place," a non-profit, drug rehabilitation clinic for kids ages 12 to 18. Erickson says the average age of first time use of drugs is 11½ years. Crack cocaine is being used extensively, being that it's cheap enough for kids to buy with their allowance and very potent. She says that Broward County is now seeing a resurgence of L.S.D. on the streets. She points out the 60% success rate her organization has had in rehabilitating drug abusers, and how intricately involved the family is.			05-07-88 4:30 a.m.	1.59.48

	Joy 0525-88 Jim McClellan interviews Bob and Pauline Bortosch on the subject of alcohol and drug abuse. The couple, founders of "Overcomers Outreach," tell of their outreach to alcoholics by using their Christian-based 12-step process. Being an alcoholic himself for 14 years, Bob acknowledges that the children of alcoholics are adversely affected, and do carry the hurts of the problems caused by alcohol. Pauline gives steps for the children of alcoholics to break out of their psychological barriers: 1] admit there is a problem, 2] choose to do something about it, and 3] get involved in a group called ACA (Adult Children of Alcoholics).
